WHAT DISCRIMINATION LOOKS LIKE

Discrimination can be obvious. Other times it is more difficult to identify. Here are some scenarios that may be discrimination depending on the details.

If you believe you have been discriminated against due to a protected trait, or if you have knowledge of a violation of laws OHR enforces, you can file a complaint with our office by:

Filing a complaint questionnaire: Submit online at ohr.dc.gov/ complaint or in-person at 441 4th St NW, Suite 570N.

Intake appointment: OHR will contact you to discuss your incident further once your questionnaire is properly submitted.

Mediation: A mandatory mediation session will be held to attempt nvestigation: If mediation fails, a full investigation into the incident will begin.

Decision: If probable cause is found, your case will be sent to an Administrative Law Judge for a hearing on the merits.

WHEN WE CAN HELP

OHR can take a discrimination complaint if it meets the three criteria below:

he incident occurred in one of the four areas:

- Public Accommodations and DC Government Services
- Housing
- Educational Institutions

Criteria II:

The incident occurred in the last year. If you are a DC government mplovee. you must first report the complaint to your EEO counselor within 180 days of the incident.

Criteria III:

You were treated differently in a harmful way because of one of the protected traits or other local or federal law(s) we enforce.

SAY "NO" TO YOUTH BULLYING

OHR's Youth Bullying Prevention Program helps youth-serving agencies, schools, and grantees implement effective bullying prevention policies in compliance with the law. We focus on a public health approach, emphasizing prevention, supporting at-risk youth, and addressing incidents to change behaviors rather than relying solely on disciplinary actions.

YOUR RIGHT TO LANGUAGE ACCESS

The Language Access Program ensures people who speak limited or no English can access government services in their language by enforcing the Language Access Act of 2004. If you speak little to no English and need services from a DC agency, you must be offered an interpreter and/or translations of vital documents. If you are denied assistance in your language, file a complaint online or in-person at 441 4th St NW, Suite 570N. After filing, we will work to ensure you receive the services you were seeking. Remedies are mandated in cases of law violations.

PROTECTING DOMESTIC WORKERS WITH EQUAL RIGHTS

Domestic workers are protected under the DCHRA through the Domestic Workers Employment Rights Amendment Act of 2022. This amendment allows domestic workers to file discrimination claims under the DCHRA's anti-discrimination provisions. While being a domestic worker is not a protected trait, the Act prohibits discrimination based on any of the 18 protected traits for employees. Discrimination includes failing to hire, subjecting workers to a hostile work environment, or retaliating against them for filing a complaint with OHR.

MAKING THE MOVIE-GOING EXPERIENCE ACCESSIBLE AND INCLUSIVE

The Open Movie Captioning Requirement Amendment Act of 2024 mandates that movie theaters in DC with three or more screens offer a minimum number of open-captioned showings weekly. OHR conducts random compliance reviews, performs at least three annual reviews for qualifying theaters, investigates consumer complaints, and issues violation notices as needed
